About

I've always fancied those around myself whom were qualified software designers and project managers, My inspiration really. This being around my late teens as I was approaching my varsity years, Fast forward to my Varsity days I found a deeper connection with project management and full stack development as a whole. Not knowing what the future holds but I am optimistic, passionate about expanding my knowledge, becoming a better person outside and inside a work environment and better the world technologically through innovation and team work. I base my interests on my skills and hopefully they will be vacancies to accommodate my knowledge and life.

Objective

As a software developer, I am seeking for a internship in the IT department
